DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 8-12, 23-32 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from a multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5, 13-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takahashi et al. (Takahashi), US 2003/0044310 A1.

Takahashi discloses the claimed method and apparatus for treating sewage, which appears to be defined as wastewater or water containing contaminants, in a combined sewer system, where sewer system reads upon pipes, comprising the step of treating the sewage with an electrochemically produced activated oxygen (see page 4, sections [0044]-[0048]). The reference further discloses that the sewage, such as the claimed rainwater is stored in a rainwater-reservoir system before the electrochemical treatment (see page 7, section [0076]).

Therefore, since the Takahashi patent discloses each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 6-7 and 18-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi as applied to claims above, and further in view of Suda et al. (Suda), machine translation of Japanese patent publication 9-276377.

The Takahashi patent appears to directly electrolyze the water and does not teach electrolyzing a portion, storing said portion and mixing the formed hypochlorous with the sewage. The Suda reference discloses the use of removing a portion and electrolyzing said portion to form hypochlorous, which is mixed with the water in a sewer (see English abstract). The reference further discloses the reservoir or cistern as claimed with a filter (see figure and page 2 of the detailed description of the English translation).

Consequently, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the Takahashi reference with the teachings of the Suda reference, because the Suda reference teaches the use of a portion of the water which is electrolyzed, stored and filtered and mixed with water in a sewer pipeline.
